shrapnel shell the morning of the Civil War, passed through Ogden today en route to his home at San Francisco, after an absence from this country for over 12 years. Mr. Smith has been in England, France, Germany and other European countries during the past 12 years and, although a veteran of the Civil War, was one of the war workers in France with the Knights of Columbus.

When the war started, Mr. Smith vas at Tours, France, and he immediately offered what assistance he could to the French government. In tue time America, with her sturdy soldiers, invaded France in quest of the freedom of the world and Smith, like scores of others, joined hands in making merriment and pleasure for the following account from a Knox-the doughboys. According to his ville Tenn paper of the return of in the K. of C. forces in France.

Was Proud of America. When the American forces entered the conflict and when General Pershing entered France with his rainbow made. It is expected that the Herman division, the heart of Smith, like that of all Americans, jumped with patriotism. He was stationed at Paris with the K. of C. and related at various times his experience during the battle Bull Run and other battles of the Civil War to the soldiers of 1918. "Entertainment did a world of good to the boys who were over there," said Mr. Smith, "and believe me the American entertainers surely deserve a world of credit.

"A number of our boys oftentimes grew tired, lonesome and blue, but the work of the entertainers made the tears disappear and all in all the work of every organization in France aided the soldiers in their battle for democ-

Garry Herrman of the Cincy Reds had always been a big figure in the world's seriesas president of the Reds but as head of the national commission. This year Garry comes into his own. The mail of the Cincinnati Club is swamped with requests for world series reservations. There are already more requests for seats than there are seats in the park building a huge bleacher section that will extend out over a narrow street back of centerfield. The capacity of the park will then be about 40,000.
